Megan Steen, COO of Burrell, displayed the service areas, listed a few of the treatment services they provided, which included contacting them via 988 and 911 for a mobile crisis response, noted them being embedded with law enforcement, including with the Columbia Police Department and the Missouri Psychiatric Center, and explained the Behavioral Crisis Center, which was being built in partnership with the City of Columbia, would extend their capacity and allow them to extend crisis stabilization hours from 23 hours to 72 hours when needed.

Susan Hart, President of Reinhardt Construction, the general contractor for the new crisis center located at 107 Texas Avenue, stated they had been provided with a notice to proceed in September, explained how they were progressing as well as their plan to turn

IV. SCHEDULED PUBLIC COMMENT

SPC57-25 Travis Bird - Vidwest Community Media Center impact and funding.

Travis Bird commented that he believed Vidwest deserved the City's continued support as it was a model of successful community development and collaboration, especially in the arts, explained he was a media professional who shared working space with Vidwest and had observed the work of Vidwest over the last five years, felt Vidwest was a model of community collaboration and diversity of use as it housed an incredible variety of creative practices in a supportive, supervised, serious, and yet relaxed environment and reflected what the Columbia community wanted, a diverse, creative, generative place where all kinds of people were welcomed and learned from and with each other, stated Vidwest offered a way for anyone to see and reach for the next level, noted Vidwest operated smartly, in part because the City's funding allowed them to focus on the work versus living in funding purgatory, pointed out the work of Vidwest would be imperiled without funding as they could not assume the work of these volunteers would continue, believed Vidwest was entitled to the money collected by the City from cable franchise fees because those funds were for community media.

SPC58-25 Tana Morehead - Disaster Assistance Resources available to City of Columbia residents following Presidential Declaration MO 21340.

Tana Morehead with the U.S. Small Business Administration (SBA), explained the SBA provided technical assistance and support to starting or expanding businesses as well as support for homeowners, renters, and small businesses who might have been impacted by a disaster event, such as the tornado in March/April as those in the primary counties could apply for physical damages and those in contiguous counties could apply for economic injuries, such as covering debts they were not able to pay because the disaster had occurred, stated people could apply online at www.sba.gov/disaster or contact customer service at 800.659.2955, noted she also scheduled informational sessions to share disaster preparedness as she believed having information ahead of a disaster helped eliminate stress and hasty decisions, and indicated she was open to providing program details to anyone interested.

SPC59-25 David Diamond, Sierra Club - Gans Creek Recreation Area development options.

David Diamond, a Senior Ecologist at the University of Missouri and an enthusiastic cyclist and trail user, indicated statewide ecological system classifications, descriptions, and maps for various states, including Missouri, were completed between 1996-2021 when he was the Director of the Missouri Resource Assessment Partnership at the University of Missouri, explained the Gans Creek Recreation Area contained the most ecologically significant natural resources within any City park property by a wide margin, was within a conservation opportunity area designated by the Missouri Department of Conservation, and included an important bird area designated by the National Audubon Society in conjunction with the American Bird Conservancy in its northeast corner, pointed out the diversity of its features, which included bluffs, cliffs, caves, sinkholes, and the Gans Creek itself, which was an outstanding state resource water downstream as designated by the Missouri Department of Natural Resources, noted the area shared a common border with the Gans Creek Wild Area to the west, a specially designated area within Rock Bridge Memorial State Park, commented that the Gans Creek Recreational Area property offered the opportunity to increase the size of that large, protected block of core wildlife habitat, which once lost would be lost forever, and stated a coalition of environmental organizations, which included the Sierra Club, the Columbia Audubon, Friends of Rock Bridge State Park, and the Missouri Coalition for the Environment, had created a two-page fact sheet along with a PowerPoint presentation in which they emphasized favoring low impact recreation options, i.e., footpaths from the north bluff of Gans Creek southward to the property boundary as well as volunteer and student educational opportunities.

VI. OLD BUSINESS

- B308-25 Granting the issuance of a conditional use permit to Marmar Atallah and Hana Shehadeh to allow the operation of a short-term rental on property located at 3408 Eastham Drive; providing a severability clause (Case No. 332-2025).

The bill was given second reading by the City Clerk.

Community Development Director Clint Smith provided a staff report, and responded to Council questions and comments.

City Manager De'Carlon Seewood left the meeting during this discussion and Deputy City Manager Matt Unrein took his place for the remainder of the meeting.

Marmar Atallah indicated he and his wife had purchased this property in 2019 but had moved down the street in 2021 as they had outgrown the home, explained they had initially rented the property to help support other families, stated they had strict rules on partying, noise, and smoking within the property, pointed out they now utilized a professional lawn care service to take care of the property, understood some of the complaints were from before they had started the business, commented that he had been contacted two days after a marijuana smell complaint, which was legal and required no further action per the Office of Neighborhood Services, explained special smoke detectors and noise detectors that would report directly to Airbnb had been ordered, which would allow the renters to be fined, noted the letters had been sent to the Eastham address versus their primary residential address, and pointed out they had taken the listing off of the site as soon as they had received the court date notice and had started this process to ensure they were in compliance with City regulations.

Jessica Simpson explained she was a local business owner, who managed short-term rentals, and a realtor, stated most of the complaints associated with this address pre-dated its use as a short-term rental, noted issues had been minimal and had been taken care of since the property has been operating as an Airbnb, pointed out the most recent complaint regarding a trash can was due to a family member staying at the property, not an Airbnb guest, provided an example of a landscaping complaint that had not been a violation, understood the type of scrutiny this property received versus others in the area showed neighbors were being selective about enforcement rather than being concerned about actual code compliance, commented that this property allowed for single moms to earn additional income in cleaning the property while maintaining flexibility with childcare, and noted the majority of short-term rentals were not located in homes that would be considered affordable housing.

The Council asked questions and made comments.

B308-25 was given third reading by the City Clerk with the vote recorded as follows: VOTING YES: WATERMAN, BUFFALOE, ELWOOD. VOTING NO: PETERS, CARROLL, SAMPLE, FOSTER. Bill declared defeated.

- B322-25 Amending the FY 2026 Annual Budget by appropriating funds in the amount of $99,840.00; authorizing an agreement for professional services with Powerhouse Community Development Corporation for community navigation liaison peer services.

The bill was given second reading by the City Clerk.

Violence Prevention Administrator D'Markus Thomas-Brown provided a staff report, and responded to Council questions and comments.

B322-25 was given third reading by the City Clerk with the vote recorded as follows: VOTING YES: WATERMAN, PETERS, BUFFALOE, CARROLL, ELWOOD, SAMPLE, FOSTER. VOTING NO: NO ONE. Bill declared enacted, reading as follows:

B312-25

Rezoning property located on the southeast corner of Green Valley Drive and Moon Valley Road from District PD (Planned Development) to District R-MF (Multiple-family Dwelling) (Case No. 335-2025).

The bill was given second reading by the City Clerk.

Community Development Director Clint Smith provided a staff report, and responded to Council questions.

Carolyn Amparan, who was representing the Mid-Missouri Group of the Sierra Club, appreciated the fact this property, if further developed as PD or residential multi-family, would require stormwater mitigation for the increased impervious surface and updates to older construction to comply with stormwater standards, expressed support for more density to accommodate more housing but would rather that density avoid the floodplain because it would require fill in the floodplain, which damaged the floodplain and the value it provided, explained healthy floodplains, which were the results of thousands of years of floods and meanders, stored flood waters, lowered flood depths, recharged groundwater, and reduced pollution, believed Columbia should require compensatory storage when fill was added to the floodplain to ensure the water stayed within the area of new development if it was going to continue to allow developers to place fill in the 100-year flood zone, stated heavier rainfall events were increasing localized flooding due to climate change so the flooding that already occurred on the southeast and west sides of the property were at greater risk of flooding, pointed out today's 500-year floodplain could be tomorrow's 100-year floodplain, understood only 18 percent of American's living in a flood zone had the required insurance, reiterated that it might be time for the City to update its regulations for providing permits for fill in the floodplain and flood fringe, expressed opposition to making it easier to develop on the open areas of this property, and provided a handout of her comments.

The Council asked questions and made comments.

B312-25 was given third reading by the City Clerk with the vote recorded as follows: VOTING YES: WATERMAN, PETERS, BUFFALOE, CARROLL, ELWOOD, SAMPLE, FOSTER. VOTING NO: NO ONE. Bill declared enacted, reading as follows:

Eugene Elkin, a Second Ward resident, indicated he liked the idea of the potential changes discussed, suggested people recycle their possessions with Love Columbia as the proceeds went toward helping the homeless, and thought additional Christmas decorations in the downtown would make the downtown more inviting.

Traci Wilson-Kleekamp thanked the Council for participating in the retreat, commented that it was hard to have difficult conversations, understood that sometimes things relayed to the City Manager were not relayed back so that everyone was on the same page, hoped they would continue to work on that issue, noted the location of the retreat did not allow for an audio recording of the meeting, but that she had recorded and transcribed it in order to study it further, asked that the Council consider accessibility and a transcriptionist for all of its meetings, and suggested that going forward they remember that the public was affected when they chose not to meet and that it was important to continue to do the work even when it was really hard.

The Council and staff discussed various topics to include wishing everyone a Merry Christmas, Happy Holidays, Happy Hanukah, and a Happy New Year, the retreat in terms of communicating openly, understanding each other, continuing to build relationships, etc., as it would help facilitate their ability to make robust and useful policies and processes, suggesting staff and the Planning and Zoning Commission look at the City Code as it related to practices associated with the floodplain overlay and fill in order to build, consideration of holy days when scheduling council meetings, potential changes to council meetings, specifically the potential of allowing comments when the item is first read, Council Member Sample participating in a Columbia Police Department ride-a-long on New Year's Eve, asking staff to consider bus enclosures, which staff indicated they were discussing in terms of any conflicts if and when they began collecting bus fares again, changing the request for a report regarding a campaign finance reform task force to a work session that would be lower on the priority list so they could talk through possibilities, the busy week due to the retreat, the legislative priorities meeting, the housing study meeting, and the Let's Talk Local event hosted within the Fourth Ward whereby the Public Health and Human Services staff shared how they worked with social service organizations, and transitional housing for the unsheltered.

Council Member Foster made a motion asking staff to determine the feasibility and manner of establishing a managed property for the provision of temporary transitional housing for unsheltered persons in the City of Columbia, considering the use of Pallet shelters or similar structures, along with exploring a location, number of shelters, a cost, management of the site, and any other elements that needed to be considered, and providing a tentative timeline for establishing the site. The motion was seconded by Mayor Buffaloe. After discussion, the motion was approved unanimously by voice vote.

The Council and staff continued to discuss various topics including yesterday being the Sunday of Joy for those who followed the Christian calendar along with the need to share joy with others, especially those who might be struggling, the lighting of a LEGO menorah in front of City Hall at 6:00 p.m. tomorrow, and connecting staff with Tana Morehead with the U.S. Small Business Administration.
