V. NEW BUSINESS

Presentation of Flock Safety Cameras - Columbia Police Department

Police Chief Jill Schlutte presented information on the Flock camera system.

These cameras are designed to track vehicles and do not have facial recognition capabilities. When a vehicle associated with a known offender is registered in a national database, law enforcement across counties and states are alerted if that vehicle is detected in a particular area. This system aids in preventing crime, especially in high-theft retail areas, by identifying known criminal vehicles and notifying authorities when they approach areas where they have previously been involved in incidents.

Many large cities have successfully used the Flock system to alert neighboring areas when known criminals or suspects are heading their way, reducing response time and increasing the chances of apprehension. Implementing Flock also helps modernize the department with current technology, which can positively impact recruitment efforts.

The City Council will vote on this matter on October 7, 2024. Citizens will have the opportunity to speak, ask questions, or raise concerns during the meeting.

NXTPRO PUMA Shoe Circuit is one of the largest youth basketball circuits in the U.S. NXTPRO has requested $7,500 in tourism development funds for a new event in Columbia to be held July 4-6, 2024, which is a lower occupancy period. They are estimating 85-90 teams the first year with each team playing five games over the course of three days. The event is estimated to generate over 1,000 hotel room nights.
