BACKGROUND INFORMATION:

Over the years and in recent cases, infill development and redevelopment in Columbia's oldest, central area neighborhoods has been controversial. An "Ad Hoc Committee on Central Columbia Neighborhood Protections," a self-organized coalition of eight Columbia neighborhood organizations, convened meetings in 2021 and made the following seven findings:

1. Infill development architecture does not match the character of the neighborhoods;
2. Infill development scale does not match the scale of the existing neighborhoods;
3. Historic buildings are not adequately protected;
4. Affordable housing is lacking;
5. Storm water needs to be managed;
6. Land use and structural scale transitions require stronger buffers; and
7. "Walkability" needs improvement.

To respond to this and other concerns expressed to City leadership regarding development in old, established neighborhoods, the City is requesting proposals to develop an ordinance, design guidelines, and other strategies to protect the integrity of existing neighborhoods while making reasonable allowance for new development and building rehabilitation.

The central Columbia neighborhoods, for purposes of this project, is an area that extends from Old Highway 63 on the east to Clinkscales Drive on the west, and between Business Loop 70 on the north and Broadway on the south, and including the East Campus neighborhood south of Broadway between Old 63 and College Avenue (State Route 763) and the Grasslands neighborhood south of Broadway west of Providence Road (State Route 163). This is an area of approximately 2,000 acres (see Attachment 1: Map).

Characteristics of the project study area:

The tentative boundary of the study area is primarily residential and institutional use with pockets of commercial, located between Business 70 on the north, and the downtown and the University of Missouri on the south (see attached map). The east-west limits of the study area are roughly coterminous with the city limits in 1935 when the City of Columbia approved its first City Plan and Zoning District Map. The downtown central business district and the University of Missouri campus are not included in the study area. Downtown has a form-based zoning district and the Downtown Community Improvement District (CID, aka "The District") has a set of voluntary design guidelines. The Business Loop 70 Community Improvement District (The Loop CID) has adopted a corridor study for improvements. The University, as a state institution, is not subject to city zoning, building, and other land use ordinances, and follows its own master plan process.

Zoning classifications

The majority of the study area is zoned for two-family or multiple-family districts despite a large inventory of single-family detached dwelling units (more than 20 percent of housing units are single-family and a larger percentage of residential buildings are single-family). More than 40 percent of housing units are in buildings more than 60 years old. The proportion increases to more than two-thirds for single-family dwellings. There has been scattered new construction of small apartment buildings and dwellings in recent decades. Large-scale redevelopment during the late 1950s and 1960s was associated with the activities of the Land Clearance and Redevelopment Authority, which ran urban renewal projects including construction of public housing. The Columbia Housing Authority (CHA) has been systematically renovating and redeveloping its housing inventory as part of its Affordable Housing Initiative.

Subdivision patterns

The majority of the original subdivisions are 75 years and older. Some areas have irregular and obsolete platting. The block and street pattern is rectilinear with occasional dead-ends and cul-de-sacs. Several subdivisions include alleys which in general have not been well used as either secondary or primary access to residential properties.

Infrastructure

There is an incomplete network of sidewalks in the area, a result of a prolonged period when subdivisions were developed without sidewalk requirements. Only in the 1970s did the city adopt sidewalk requirements. Accessible sidewalks in this area are essential transportation infrastructure.

Most of the area developed prior to adoption of a modern storm water management ordinance (2006) and therefore there are primarily storm water conveyance systems in place and relatively little storm water detention and treatment. The majority of the study area is within the lower or middle Hinkson Creek watershed areas and there are several mapped special flood hazard areas where properties are within either the 0.2 percent chance event or one percent chance of flood risk.

Demolition

City-wide, the city issued 24 demolition permits (16 residential; eight commercial structures) in FY 2022 and typically has issued 30-40 demolition permits per year (commercial as well as residential structures). Though some demolitions remove nuisance structures that are beyond recall, and some others address functional obsolescence of businesses, there are also demolitions that make way for redevelopment. In the latter case removal of structures is often controversial; an example is a “Save Historic Broadway” campaign that began upon news spreading that a property owner was considering requesting a rezoning of a residential corner to a commercial category (no application was filed).

Neighborhoods

The Central area includes several distinct neighborhood areas. There are 14 registered neighborhood associations located within the central area. The city has a neighborhood organization policy that encourages two-way communications between the city and its organized associations.

Existing urban conservation overlay districts

The whole study area has not been declared an urban conservation area, but two neighborhoods within it have been recognized as such, and a third neighborhood was found to have met the qualifications stated in the city ordinance. The area includes two existing urban conservation zoning overlays: East Campus, located east of the University of Missouri campus, and Benton-Stephens, anchored by Thomas Hart Benton Elementary School and Stephens College. An urban conservation overlay ordinance was developed for the North Central Columbia neighborhood but was not approved.

Student housing issue

The majority of students enrolled at the University of Missouri live off-campus. The neighborhoods around downtown and, since 2012, downtown itself, have been popular locations for student rentals. While many student residences are quiet, there is significant public concern about over-concentration of student rentals, which is associated with parking congestion, trash accumulation and excessive noise, poor property maintenance, over-occupancy, and nuisance parties.

A number of property owners, over several decades, have voluntarily “downzoned” their properties from multiple-family residential classifications to single-family residence district or two-family district or two-family district to single-family district to preserve the existing use of their property for posterity. A coordinated effort in the West Ash neighborhood in 2018 involved 85 properties.

Demographics

The study area includes all or part of census tracts 2, 3, 6, 7, 9 and 21. Median household incomes in all of these census tracts with the exception of 6 (only a small part of which is within the study area) are below 80 percent of the area median income. An additional public concern is the loss of housing that lower-income households might be able to afford.

The area southwest of downtown (Old Southwest, Grasslands) does not share a number of the characteristics of the study area; it has higher rates of owner-occupancy; higher incomes; and a majority of the area is zoned single-family. The shared characteristics are old housing and subdivisions that precede the application of zoning and subdivision ordinances. There are concerns about the impacts of downtown and university-generated traffic.

Although an attempt has been made to provide accurate and up-to-date information, the City of Columbia, Missouri does not warrant or represent that the background information provided herein reflects all relationships or existing conditions related to this Request for Proposal.

2. SCOPE OF SERVICES AND DELIVERABLES

PERIOD OF SERVICE:

Contract Period: The original contract period shall be from the start date as stated in the agreement/contract or notice of award through completion of the professional planning and design services. The contract shall not bind, nor purport to bind, the city for any contractual commitment in excess of the original contract period.

In no event, shall the term of the contract/agreement exceed five (5) years and three (3) months per City Ordinance.

SCOPE OF SERVICES:

The scope of services shall be focused on development code changes and design guidelines that address several concerns, as stated in the background section. An urban conservation area can be sustained through the use of a number of tools – revisions to zoning districts, overlay districts, design and architectural review, voluntary or mandatory design guidelines, subdivision and parcelization standards, development policies, and incentives.

Infill development standards and guidelines

Contractor shall provide infill development or redevelopment: Recommend regulatory changes and develop design guidelines for design and development shall be:

- a. Sensitive to architectural styles in the neighborhoods
- b. Encourages appropriate scale of development for the neighborhoods

The regulatory review shall include height, lot coverage, bulk, site improvements (driveways, parking, accessory structures, walkways); massing, materials, rooflines, and entries.

Contractor shall achieve greater preservation of existing structures through the regulatory framework and incentives to reuse historic structures. In areas zoned multi-family with single-family structures on small or narrow lots, develop amendments with incentives to maintain the pattern and discourage lot consolidations that increase the scale of development where it is not consistent with surrounding areas.

- A “small lot” zoning district that allows existing, smaller, narrower lots, and allows the creation of small lots out of larger parcels. Note: The City’s standard minimum lot for single-family dwellings is 60 feet minimum width and 7,000 square feet minimum area.
- Overlay standards (or amended district standards) that encourage preservation by placing limitations on development building envelopes.
- Design guidelines that replicate or mimic neighborhood traditional styles (for example bungalow) while facilitating compliance with up-to-date accessibility and energy efficiency standards.

Contractor shall develop design guidelines for housing types that are economical to build and therefore more affordable, without compromising on design compatibility. Housing types that might be considered include:

- Accessory apartments and accessory dwelling units
- Cottage developments and optimal site plans for the same;
- Minimal housing units;
- Single-family attached (townhomes; quads);

- “House-like” small multi-family buildings;
- Tiny homes;
- Apartment buildings where larger footprints are appropriate;
- Transit-supportive development models.

Previous efforts to develop design guidelines include the Downtown Community Improvement District design guidelines (2015) and a Townhouse form based district that was drafted in 2017 with the Unified Development Code but to date has not been mapped. The City Planning and Zoning Commission has done study of lot coverage, lot dimensions, and other standards to regulate bulk.

Architectural and site plan review. The ad-hoc group expressed an interest in architectural review. The contractor shall prepare material for public review on the practice of site plan review/architectural review processes and procedures that shall be considered for implementation. Integration with administrative plan review and permit processes shall be a consideration.

Optional workshop. Subject to property owner cooperation, convene a planning workshop (e.g., mini-charrette) in which conceptual site plans and building designs shall use a specific site to demonstrate design guidelines for sites and buildings on a specific site.

Resources: Columbia Imagined is the City’s Comprehensive Plan. The City has adopted a West Central Columbia Neighborhood Plan. Several neighborhood areas have been surveyed for historic significance by the City Historic Preservation Commission using federal matching funds. The City, under the auspices of the Downtown Leadership Council, has produced a Downtown Charrette Report for the east and west gateway areas of the downtown. Affordable housing issues have been documented in the City’s Consolidated Plan for Housing and Community Development 2019-2024 and the Fair Housing Task Force Report.

Stormwater management and open space needs

Contractor shall include storm water management best practices for small-scale infill development and redevelopment, which currently is allowed an exemption from on-site storm water management. Incorporate an evaluation of existing storm water patterns and infrastructure capacities into development review.

Contractor shall revisit the buffer and land use transition requirements and standards where transitions in development scale and land use intensity occur. Recommend buffers between differing types of land use even when in the same zoning district; write standards for functional open space that can provide environmental-ecological services as well as serve neighborhood needs.

Resources: The City has adopted a Climate Action and Adaptation Plan including recommendations for green infrastructure.

Access and mobility

Contractor shall establish requirements for satisfactory “walkability” and mobility for pedestrians and persons with disabilities as part of development approvals. Recommend linkage of development approvals to elimination of gaps in the pedestrian network between sites and origins/destinations of pedestrian traffic. In lower-income neighborhoods, sidewalks, crosswalks, transit stops are an important part of the transportation system.

Resources: The City has a Vision Zero initiative; the city has a Bicycle & Pedestrian Commission dedicated to bicycle and pedestrian mobility issues; and a Disabilities Commission working on behalf of persons with disabilities.

Models for public participation in private development planning

Columbia encourages constructive dialogue between developers planning projects. In established neighborhoods, there are almost always adjacent, affected neighbors. Models to collect and act on early public input is to be included in the deliverable. Rules of engagement for neighborhood-developer negotiations and good neighbor agreement templates shall be explored.

Resources: Columbia Neighborhood Associations; design professionals representing developers

DELIVERABLES:

At a minimum the following deliverables shall be accomplished:

Amendments to the City Code, primarily Chapter 29 (Unified Development Code), to enhance neighborhood protections in the area described as the urban conservation area. Ordinance amendments need to be flexible enough to accommodate differences between neighborhoods.

A set of design guidelines for development in the area described as the urban conservation area. The guidelines shall include architectural forms, styles and site plans. Guidelines may need to be differentiated by neighborhood. The guidelines may serve as an administrative manual, a resource for neighborhoods and developers, and may include an architectural review process.

Optional: An example of a conceptual plan, or alternative plans, developed through a public engagement process involving property owners, neighbors and neighborhood leaders, and city staff.

The above activities should include a strategy to engage the public throughout the process, from conception to completion.

Hard Copy Proposal - If the offeror is submitting a proposal via the mail or a courier service or is hand delivering the proposal, the offeror should include completed exhibits, forms, and other information concerning the proposal including completed Pricing Page(s) with the proposal. The offeror is instructed to review the RFP submission provisions carefully to ensure they are providing all required pricing.

Recycled Products - The City of Columbia recognizes the limited nature of our resources and the leadership role of government agencies in regard to the environment. Accordingly, the offeror is requested to print the proposal double-sided using recycled paper, if possible, and minimize or eliminate the use of non-recyclable materials such as plastic report covers, plastic dividers, vinyl sleeves, and binding. Lengthy proposals may be submitted in a notebook or binder.

Open Records - Pursuant to section 610.021, RSMo, the offeror's proposal shall be considered an open record after a contract is executed or all proposals are rejected. At that time, all proposals are scanned into the Purchasing Division imaging system.

The scanned information will be available upon request from the Purchasing Division. Therefore, the offeror is advised not to include any information in the proposal that the offeror does not want to be viewed by the public, including personal identifying information such as social security numbers.

In preparing a proposal, the offeror should be mindful of document preparation efforts for scanning purposes and storage capacity that will be required to image the proposals and should limit proposal content to items that provide substance, quality of content, and clarity of information.

To facilitate the evaluation process, the offeror is encouraged to organize their proposal into sections that correspond with the individual evaluation categories described herein. The offeror is cautioned that it is the offeror's sole responsibility to submit information related to the evaluation categories and that the City of Columbia is under no obligation to solicit such information if it is not included with the proposal. The offeror's failure to submit such information may cause an adverse impact on the evaluation of the proposal.

The proposal should be page numbered.

The signed page one from the original RFP and all signed addendums should be placed at the beginning of the proposal.

Each section should be titled with each individual evaluation category and all material related to that category should be included therein.

Questions Regarding the RFP – Except as may be otherwise stated herein, the offeror and the offeror's agents (including subcontractors, employees, consultants, or anyone else acting on their behalf) must direct all of their questions or comments regarding the RFP, the solicitation process, the evaluation, etc., to the buyer of record indicated on the first page of this RFP. Inappropriate contacts to other personnel are grounds for suspension and/or exclusion from specific procurements. Offerors and their agents who have questions regarding this matter should contact the buyer.

The buyer may be contacted via e-mail or phone as shown on the first page.

Only those questions which necessitate a change to the RFP will be addressed via an addendum to the RFP. Offerors are advised that any questions received less than ten (10) calendar days prior to the RFP opening date may not be addressed.

Joint Venture or Co-Counsel Response – If the proposal is being submitted in conjunction with another entity or law firm (similar to a joint response, joint venture, or co-counsel), there can be only one (1) response submitted in response to the Request for Proposal by the entities/firms involved. Therefore, only one (1) entity/firm must be designated as lead and must be designated as the official offeror for purposes of submitting the proposal. Such lead offeror and contractor, if awarded the contract, must be the only party officially signing and submitting the proposal as well as serving as the official signatory for the joint venture or co-counsel.

COMPETITIVE NEGOTIATION OF PROPOSALS:

The offeror is advised that under the provisions of this Request for Proposal, the Purchasing Division reserves the right to conduct negotiations of the proposals received or to award a contract without negotiations. If such negotiations are conducted, the following conditions shall apply:

Negotiations may be conducted in person, in writing, or by telephone.

Negotiations will only be conducted with potentially acceptable proposals. The Purchasing Division reserves the right to limit negotiations to those proposals which received the highest rankings during the initial evaluation phase. All offerors involved in the negotiation process will be invited to submit a best and final offer if necessary.

Terms, conditions, prices, methodology, or other features of the offeror's proposal may be subject to negotiation and subsequent revision. As part of the negotiations, the offeror may be required to submit supporting financial, pricing and other data in order to allow a detailed evaluation of the feasibility, reasonableness, and acceptability of the proposal.

The mandatory requirements of the Request for Proposal shall not be negotiable and shall remain unchanged unless the Purchasing Division determines that a change in such requirements is in the best interest of the City of Columbia.

EVALUTION AND AWARD PROCESS:

After determining that a proposal satisfies the mandatory requirements stated in the Request for Proposal, the evaluator(s) shall use both objective analysis and subjective judgment in conducting a comparative assessment of the proposal in accordance with the evaluation criteria stated below. The contract(s) shall be awarded to the lowest and best proposal(s). The City of Columbia reserves the right to reject any or all proposals, to negotiate with any offeror considered qualified, or to make multiple or single award(s) without further discussion.

Evaluation Criteria Scoring Category	Maximum Points
Cost	20 points
Relevant experience	20 points
Land use planning and zoning expertise	20 points
Urban design expertise	20 points
Public engagement techniques and strategy	20 points
TOTAL	100 points

After an initial screening process, a question and answer conference or interview may be conducted with the offeror, if deemed necessary by the evaluation committee. In addition, the offeror may be asked to make an oral presentation of their proposal during the conference. Attendance cost at the conference shall be at the offeror's expense. All arrangements and scheduling shall be coordinated by the Purchasing Division.

EVALUATION OF COST

Pricing – The offeror must provide pricing for all line items as required on the Pricing Page.

Objective Evaluation of Cost – The cost evaluation shall be based upon the sum of the firm, fixed prices stated on the Pricing Page for the original contract period and optional service.

$$\frac{\text{Lowest Responsive Offeror's Price}}{\text{Compared Offeror's Price}} \times \begin{matrix} \text{Maximum} \\ \text{Cost} \\ \text{Evaluation} \\ \text{points (20)} \end{matrix} = \begin{matrix} \text{Assigned Cost} \\ \text{Points} \end{matrix}$$

The offeror shall agree and understand that the quantities used in the evaluation of cost are provided solely to document how cost will be evaluated. The City of Columbia makes no guarantee regarding the accuracy
